Flow of Lava Stopped.

Reports received late yesterday afternoon indicated that the flow of lava had ceased everywhere, and that the streams which rolled down the sides of the mountain were cooling.

The relief and rescue work is being that he brought the matter up to defend Mr. Bennett's position rather than to abuse Mr. Hopkins. He said that Mr. Hopkins was a strong restrictionist of immigration, and, therefore, might have said things about Mr. Bennett when he was too much actuated by his zeal.

ship company and had abused the confidence of the House in doing this. There followed a running debate in which Mr. Goldfogie, of New York, said he had not been present when the speech was delivered, but if he had been he would have remonstrated against it. At this point Mr. Hopkins entered the House and said he hardly understood the method of procedure. He could not see, he said, why his remarks were to be garbled, and he could not see why the House was afraid to let his speech go before the country.

Mr. Goldfogle asked him if he had not inserted several remarks in the Record which he had not made on the floor of the House. Mr. Hopkins replied by saying that he had made most of the statements on the floor, ad had inserted edothers in the record because time enough had not been allowed him to say what he wanted to say.

Mr. Goldfogle remonstrated against an insinuation which be said was in Mr. Hopkins' speech a linst him, on the immigration question, and proceeded to the House that Fannie Diner for whom admission to the United States Mr. Bennett for his action.

Mr. Smith, of Kentucky, explained to the House that Fannie Diner for whom admission to the United States Mr. Bennett had introduced the bill, which bill the House had passed, was a German girl who was idlotic, and had been rejected by the immigration authorities.

House Was Deceived.

The people have been encouraged today by a message sent from Prof. Mat-House Was Deceived.

He said that it was certainly evident that the House had been deceived by somebody withholding the information that Fannie Dince was an idiot?

Mr. Gardner interrupted to say that he would later yield enough time to Mr. Bennett to explain to the House the truth about Fannie Diner as the discussion was proceeding on an incorrect basis.
